What is the purpose of assessing for college prep exams?

Imagine Galileo College Prep Benchmarks (SAT) assess students in grades 9–11, up to three times per year for preparation in taking the SAT. The assessments are written to mimic questions on the SAT to give students an authentic test feel and are administered online for ease of use. The College Prep Benchmarks (SAT) are intended to provide forecasting on how students may perform on their future SAT. These charts represent the specific grades and content areas available for the Imagine Galileo College Prep Benchmarks (SAT). The assessments will provide Developmental Level (DL) scale scores and growth measures for Math and Reading only. Writing scores are currently in a pilot stage for the school year, only raw score and standards mastery data will be provided.

What do the College Prep Benchmarks (SAT) measure?

Imagine Galileo College Prep Benchmarks (SAT) follow an intentional assessment design in which the assessment blueprint ensures similar skills and standards are measured at similar rigor and difficulty levels as on the SAT. This intentional design allows educators to monitor students' mastery of content areas while also analyzing student growth and achievement over time.

- Assessment blueprints available
- Measurement of content mastery over time
- Developmental Level (DL) scores
- Can forecast test performance on SAT when district historical SAT performance data is provided
- Suite of reporting including Content Mastery, Growth, & Achievement
- Actionable data for student course placement
- Valuable information for stakeholders on college and career readiness efforts
